

Learning Disability Crisis Response Intensive Support Team (CRIST)

Some people will need someone to help them to go through this information so that they understand it. This person may be a member of staff, someone from your family or a friend.

The learning disability crisis response team will support you if:

- you are an adult over 18 years old
- you have a learning disability
- you are using behaviour that hurts other people or hurts yourself

We will help you if your behaviour means that you might

- lose your home
- or have to go into hospital

At your appointment

When we meet you we will say:

- what our name is
- what our job is

We will find out more about the behaviours that you are using.

We will talk to your carers about the behaviours.

We will work out how much you hurt other people and how much you are hurting yourself.

We will find out why this is happening.

We will help you to understand your behaviours and why they are happening.

We will help your carers to think about better ways to support you when you are upset.

Working with you

We will work with other people to support you.
This could include your:

- doctor
- hospital
- social worker
- carer
- family/friends

A sample form titled 'Learning Disability Service Health Care Plan'. It includes fields for Name (John Smith), Date of Birth (09.03.1982), and NHS Number (12345678). It also states 'This information has been discussed with Sarah Smith'. The form lists three types of support: Community Nurses (helping with staying well and ensuring best care), Occupational Therapists (helping with everyday activities and independent living), and Physiotherapists (helping with movement and walking).

We will write a care plan together about how to support you.

You can decide who helps to write your care plan.

We will make sure you get a copy of this.

If you are already working with CRIST we will tell you how you can get in touch with us.
